The Genesis of the Theater Series

Hiroshi Sugimoto's fascination with theaters emerged in the late 20th century, rooted in his desire to capture the ephemeral nature of cinematic experience. Unlike traditional landscape or portrait photography, Sugimoto's theater series focuses on the architecture and ambiance of cinemas, emphasizing their role as portals to alternate worlds. The initial motivation was to document the physical spaces where films are experienced—the grand, often opulent interiors of historic cinemas, as well as modern multiplexes. However, as the series developed, it evolved into a philosophical exploration of light, shadow, and time. Sugimoto's photographs are not snapshots of busy audiences or movie plots; instead, they are silent, contemplative images of empty theaters, inviting viewers to reflect on the transient nature of moments captured in film.

Key milestones in the development of the series include:

- The first exhibition of theater photographs in the early 1990s.
